The Illuminated Ones, Members of Secret Societies

Believe is the occult (hidden) esoteric (private) knowledge called mysteries which they swear by a blood oath that they will never reveal.

“That which we say to the CROWD is, we worship a God, but it is the God one adores without superstition.

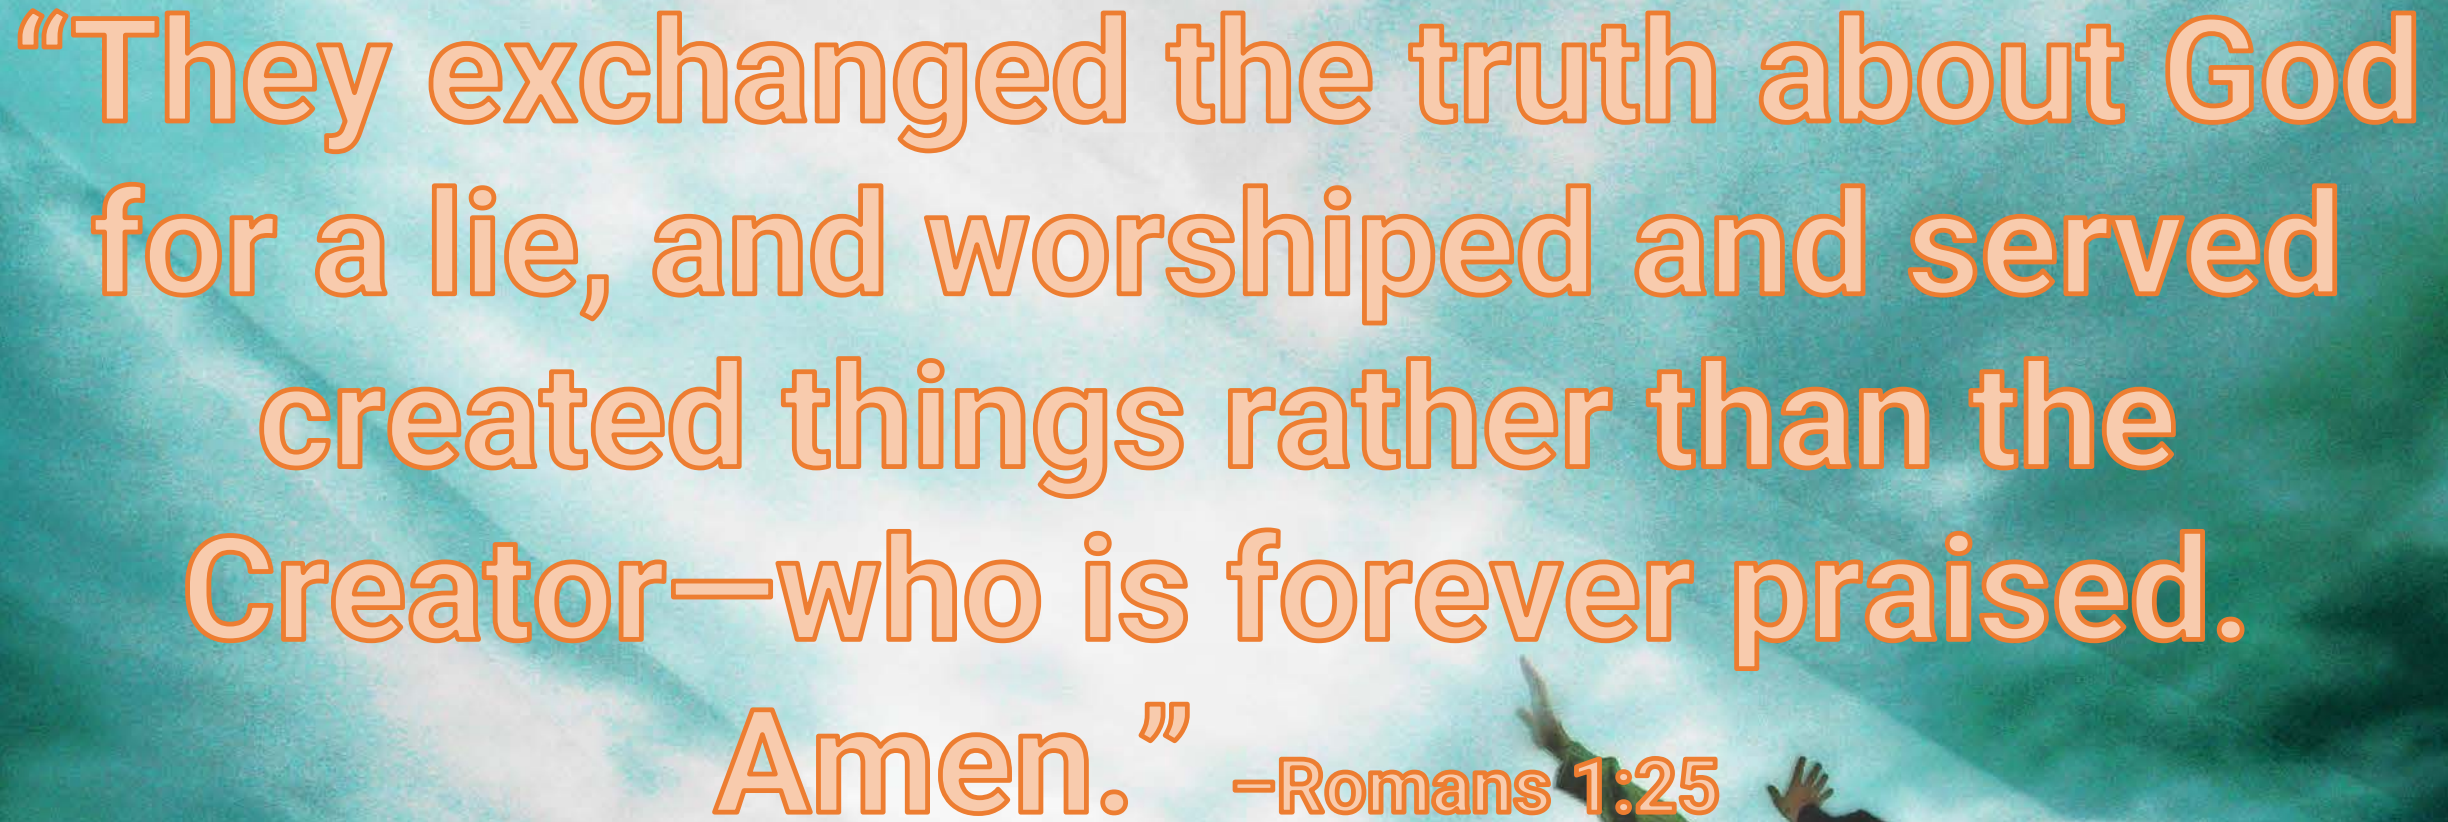

TO YOU, Sovereign Grand Instructors General, we say this, that you may repeat it to the Brethren of the 32nd, 31st, and 30th degrees: The Masonic religion should be, by all of us initiates of the high degrees, maintained in the purity of the Luciferian doctrine.”

Albert Pike (1889), head of the Freemasons and Illuminati, made his last written statement to all Palladian Councils.

HERE IS WHAT THEY BELIEVE AND WHY THEY ARE SO MAD

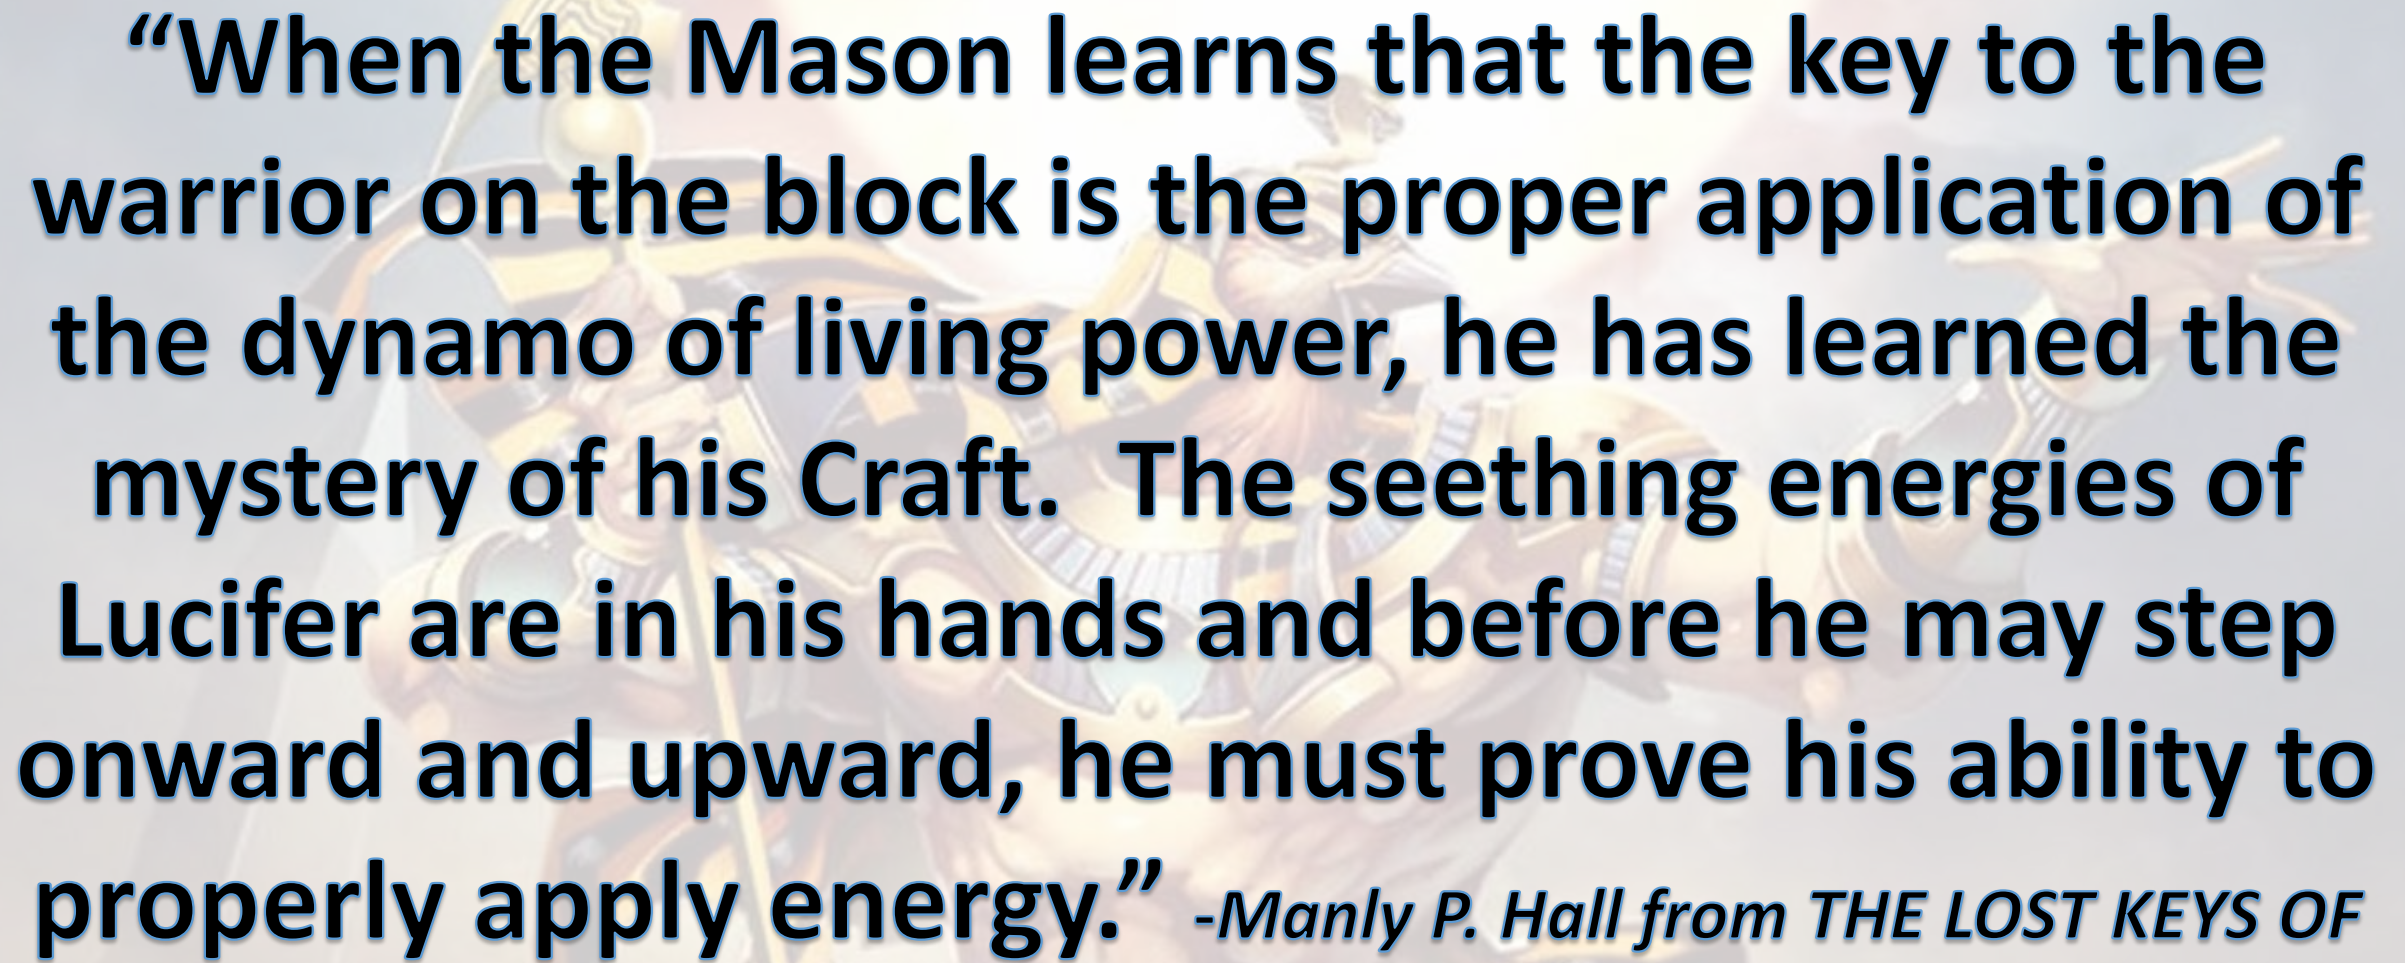

- 1. Lucifer is God, and unfortunately, Adonay is also god.*
- 2. Priests and Rabbis have got it backward, and they are all slandering his name. The true and pure philosophical religion is the belief in Lucifer, the equal of Adonay; but Lucifer, God of Light and God of Good, is struggling for humanity against Adonay, the God of Darkness and Evil.*

A person wearing a green and blue striped sweater is shown from the back, with their arms raised in a gesture of praise or worship. The background is a dramatic, cloudy sky with a mix of blue, green, and white tones, suggesting a sunset or sunrise. The overall mood is one of awe and devotion.

“They exchanged the truth about God for a lie, and worshiped and served created things rather than the Creator—who is forever praised.
Amen.” —Romans 1:25

“And the devil took him up and showed him all the kingdoms of the world in a moment of time, and said to him, “To you I will give all this authority and their glory, for it has been delivered to me, and I give it to whom I will. If you, then, will worship me, it will all be yours.” And Jesus answered him, “It is written, “You shall worship the Lord your God and him only shall you serve.” –Luke 4:5-8

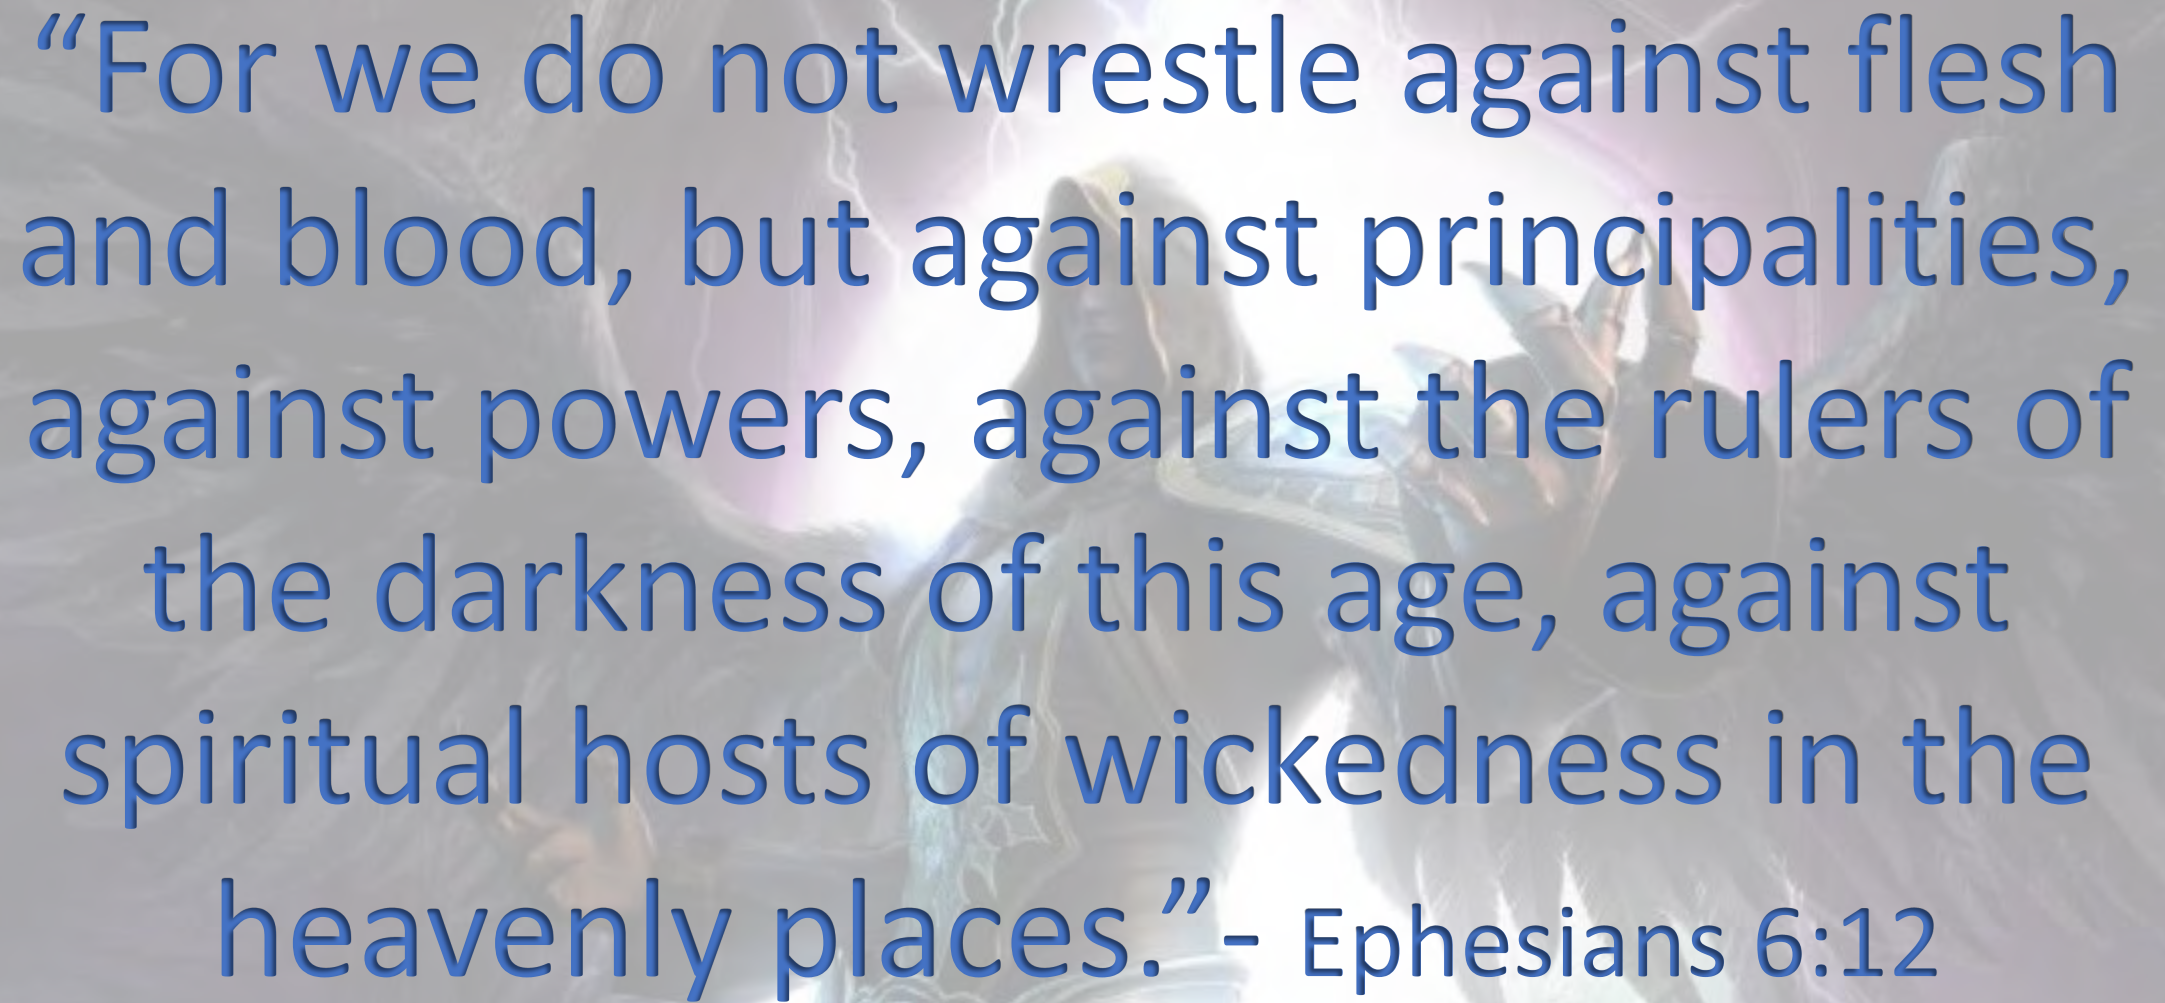

“When the Mason learns that the key to the warrior on the block is the proper application of the dynamo of living power, he has learned the mystery of his Craft. The seething energies of Lucifer are in his hands and before he may step onward and upward, he must prove his ability to properly apply energy.”

-Manly P. Hall from THE LOST KEYS OF FREEMASONRY or The Secret of Hiram Abiff

Isaiah 14:12-15

- ¹² How art thou fallen from heaven, O Lucifer, son of the morning! how art thou cut down to the ground, which didst weaken the nations!
- ¹³ For thou hast said in thine heart, I will ascend into heaven, I will exalt my throne above the stars of God: I will sit also upon the mount of the congregation, in the sides of the north:
- ¹⁴ I will ascend above the heights of the clouds; I will be like the most High.
- ¹⁵ Yet thou shalt be brought down to hell, to the sides of the pit.

“For we do not wrestle against flesh and blood, but against principalities, against powers, against the rulers of the darkness of this age, against spiritual hosts of wickedness in the heavenly places.” - Ephesians 6:12

THEREFORE, WE MUST LEARN TO RECOGNIZE THESE POWERS SO THAT WE BE NOT DECEIVED.

1ST TRIAD - CONTEMPLATE AND ADORE GOD DIRECTLY

SERAPHIM

Name means the burning ones, and they are Attendants at the Throne of God. They praise God singing, "Holy Holy Holy is the Lord of Hosts!"

CHERUBIM

Name means the Fullness of Wisdom, and they Contemplate God's providence. Assigned to protect special places.

THRONES

Represent the steadfastness of the love of God. They contemplate God's power and judgment, and they appear as the most unlike the others when revealed.

2ND TRIAD - FULFILL GOD'S PLAN IN THE UNIVERSE

DOMINIONS

Lord over the lower choirs and humanity. They take illumination from the higher hierarchies and govern the universe.

VIRTUES

Run the operation of movement in the universe. They are often associated with planets, elements, seasons, and nature.

3RD TRIAD - INTERACT & SERVE HUMANITY CLOSELY

PRINCIPALITIES

Princes of the lowest triad assigned to care and guard communities, kingdoms, states, and parishes. They are associated with transitions in power.

ARCHANGELS

Leader angels assigned to communicate and carry out God's important plans for man. Michael, Gabriel, and Rafael are the only 3 names we know.

ANGELS

Angels are closest to the material world and humanity. The lowest choir is where we get the majority of our personal guardian angels.

The Dragon (Isaiah 27:1)

“And there was war in heaven, Michael and his angels waging war with the dragon. The dragon and his angels waged war, and they were not strong enough, and there was no longer a place found for them in heaven. And the great dragon was thrown down, the serpent of old who is called the devil and Satan, who deceives the whole world; he was thrown down to the earth, and his angels were thrown down with him.” Revelation 12:7-9 (NASB)

Osiris: Egyptian God of the Underworld & Judge of the Dead

By: David Rymer BA MBT

Published: March 15, 2019 - Last updated: June 4, 2020

Osiris is one of the most powerful and important gods in the ancient Egyptian pantheon. Depictions of Osiris as a living god show him as a handsome man wearing royal robes, with the plumed headdress Atef crown of Upper Egypt and carrying the two symbols of kingship, the crook and flail. He is associated with the mythical Bennu bird which springs to life from the ashes.

As Lord of the Underworld and Judge of the Dead Osiris was known as Khentiamenti, "The Foremost of the Westerners." In ancient Egypt, the west was associated with death as this was the direction of the sunset. "Westerners" was synonymous with the deceased who had passed on to the afterlife. Osiris was referred to many names but predominantly as Wennefer, "The Beautiful One," "Eternal Lord," King of the Living and The Lord of Love.

The name "Osiris" itself is the Latinized form of Usir in Egyptian which translates as 'powerful' or 'mighty'. Osiris is the first-born of the gods Geb or earth and Nut or sky immediately following the creation of the world. He was murdered by his younger brother Set and resurrected by his sister-wife Isis. This myth was at the heart of Egyptian religious belief and culture.

Origins And Popularity

Originally, Osiris was thought to have been a fertility god, with possible Syrian origins. His popularity enabled his cult to absorb the functions of two fertility and agriculture gods, Andjeti and Khentiamenti, who were worshipped in Abydos. The djed symbol is closely associated with Osiris. He is frequently shown with green or black skin representing regeneration and the Nile River's fertile mud. In his Judge of the Dead role, he is shown as either partially or fully mummified.

After Isis, Osiris remained the most popular and long-lasting of all of ancient Egypt's gods. His cult worship endured for thousands of years from just prior to Egypt's Early Dynastic Period (c. 3150-2613 BCE) to the fall of the Ptolemaic Dynasty (323-30 BCE). There is some evidence Osiris was worshipped in the Pre-Dynastic Period of Egypt (c. 6000-3150 BCE) in some form and his cult probably emerged during that time.

While depictions of Osiris typically show him as a giving, just and generous, god of abundance and life, depictions of him as a terrifying deity dispatching demon-messengers to drag the living into the dismal realm of the dead have survived.

The Osiris Myth

The Osiris Myth one of the most popular of all ancient Egyptian myths. Shortly after the world is created, Osiris and Isis ruled over their paradise. When the tears of Atum or Ra gave birth to men and women they were uncivilized. Osiris taught them to honour their gods, gave them culture, and taught them agriculture. At this time, men and women were all equal, food was abundant and no needs were left unfulfilled.

Set, Osiris' brother grew jealous of him. Eventually, envy turned to hatred when Set discovered his wife, Nephthys, had adopted Isis' likeness and seduced Osiris. Set's anger was not directed to Nephthys, however, but on his brother, "The Beautiful One", a temptation too beguiling for Nephthys to resist. Set tricked his brother into laying down in a casket he had made to Osiris' exact measurement. Once Osiris was inside, Set slammed the lid shut and tossed the box into the Nile River.

The casket floated down the Nile and was eventually caught in a tamarisk tree by the shores of Byblos. Here the king and queen were captivated by its sweet scent and beauty. They had it cut down for a pillar for their royal court. While this was happening, Set usurped Osiris' place and reigned over the land with Nephthys. Set neglected the gifts Osiris and Isis had bestowed and drought and famine stalked the land. Eventually, Isis found Osiris inside the tree-pillar at Byblos and returned it to Egypt.

Isis knew how to resurrect Osiris. She set her sister Nephthys to guard the body while she gathered herbs for her potions. Set, discovered his brother's and hacked it into pieces, scattering the parts across the land and into the Nile. When Isis returned, she was horrified to discover her husband's body was missing.

Both sisters scoured the land for Osiris' body parts and reassembled Osiris' body. A fish had eaten Osiris' penis leaving him incomplete but Isis was able to return him to life. Osiris was resurrected but could no longer rule the living, as he was no longer whole. He descended to the underworld and reigned there as Lord of the Dead.

The Osiris myth represents important values in Egyptian culture, those of eternal life, harmony, balance, gratitude and order. Set's envy and resentment of Osiris stemmed from a lack of gratitude. In ancient Egypt, ingratitude was a "gateway sin" which predisposed an individual to other sins. The story told of the victory of order over chaos and the establishment of harmony in the land.

Osiris Worship

Abydos lay at the centre of his cult and the necropolis there became highly sought-after. People looked to be buried as near to their god as possible. Those living too far away or who were too poor for a burial plot had a stele erected in their name honour.

Osiris festivals celebrated life, both on earth and in the afterlife. Planting of an Osiris Garden was a key part of these celebrations. A garden bed was moulded in the shape of the god and fertilized by Nile water and mud. Grain grown in the plot represented Osiris arising from the dead and promised eternal life for those who tended the plot. Osiris Gardens were placed in tombs where they were known as Osiris' Bed.

Osiris' priests cared for his temples and statues of the god at Abydos, Heliopolis and Busiris. Only the priests were granted access to the inner sanctum. Egyptians visited the temple complex to make sacrificial offerings, seek counsel and medical advice, ask for prayers and receive help from the priests in the form of financial aid and gifts of material goods. They would leave sacrifices, beseeching Osiris for a favour or to thank Osiris for granting a request.

Osiris' rebirth was closely connected with the rhythms of the Nile River. Osiris' festivals were conducted to celebrate his death and resurrection together with his mystical power and his physical beauty. The "Fall of the Nile" festival honoured his death while the "Djed Pillar Festival" observed Osiris' resurrection.

Relationship Between Osiris, The King, And The Egyptian People

Egyptians thought of Osiris as the first king of Egypt. He set out the cultural values all kings later swore to uphold. Set's murder of Osiris plunged the country into chaos. Only when Horus triumphed over Set was order restored. Thus Egypt's kings identified with Horus during their reign and with Osiris in death. Osiris was both every king's father and their divine aspect, which offered hope for salvation after their death.

Hence, Osiris is shown as a mummified king and the kings were mummified to mirror Osiris. His mummified aspect preceded the practice of royal mummification. A deceased Egyptian king's mummified appearance as Osiris not only remind them of the god but also invoked his protection to drive away evil spirits. Egyptian kings similarly adopted Osiris' iconic flail and shepherd's staff. His flail symbolised Egypt's fertile land while the crook represented the king's authority.

Notions of kingship, the law of life and the natural order were all gifts by Osiris to Egypt. Participating in the community and observing religious rites and ceremonies, were paths to observing Osiris' strictures. Ordinary people and royalty alike expected to enjoy Osiris' protection in life and his impartial judgment upon their death. Osiris was forgiving, all merciful and a just judge of the dead in the afterlife.

Osiris' Mysteries

Osiris' association with life after death and with eternal life spawned a mystery cult, which travelled beyond Egypt's boundaries as the Cult of Isis. While today, no one really understands what rituals were performed within this mystery cult; they are believed to have had their geneses in Osiris' precursor mysteries conducted at Abydos from the start of the Twelfth Dynasty (1991-1802 BCE). These popular festivals drew participants from across Egypt. The mysteries narrated the life, death, revival and ascension of Osiris. It is believed dramas were performed with prominent community members and the cult priests performing the major roles in re-enacting the legends of the Osiris myth.

One story called The Contention Between Horus and Set was dramatized by mock battles between The Followers of Horus and The Followers of Set. Anyone in the audience was free to participate. Once Horus had won the day, the restoration of order was celebrated enthusiastically and Osiris' golden statue moved in a procession from the temple's inner sanctum and marched amongst the people who placed gifts on the statue.

The statue was then paraded through the city in a great circuit before finally being placed in an outdoor shrine where his admirers could see him. The emergence of the god from the darkness of his temple into the light to participate with the living also represented Osiris' resurrection after his death.

While this festival was concentrated at Abydos, followers also celebrated it in other Egyptian centres of Osiris cult worship such as Thebes, Bubastis, Memphis and Bursis. Initially, Osiris was the dominant figure of these celebrations, however, over time, the festival focus moved to Isis his wife, who had saved him from death and restored him to life. Osiris was intimately connected with the Nile River and Egypt's Nile River Valley. Eventually, Isis' ties to a physical location were dissolved. Isis was seen as the creator of the universe and the Queen of Heaven. All other Egyptian gods morphed into aspects of the almighty Isis. In this form, the cult of Isis migrated to Phoenicia, Greece, and Rome before spreading throughout the Roman Empire.

So popular was the Cult of Isis in the Roman world that it outstayed all other pagan cults in the face of the spread of Christianity. Many of the most profound aspects of Christianity, were adopted from the pagan worship of Osiris and the Cult of Isis, which emerged from his story. In ancient Egypt, as in our modern world, people were attracted to a belief system that lent meaning and purpose to their lives that offer the hope that there was life after death and that their souls would be in the care of a supernatural being who would protect them from the travails of the afterlife. Worshipping the mighty god Osiris provided his followers with just that reassurance much as our contemporary religious doctrine do today.

Reflecting On The Past

Osiris is one of leading deities in the Egyptian pantheon. Understanding his story of death, resurrection and the restoration of order is the key to truly understanding Egyptian belief systems and social ties.

Cleopatra's Needles

When the Romans discovered the two obelisks in 12 BCE, both had toppled and were lying partially buried in the sand. The Romans transported the obelisks to Alexandria and installed them at an entrance to a temple dedicated to Julius Caesar. The temple had been built by Cleopatra, which is one theory of how they came to be called "Cleopatra's Needles," a name that still endures. The Romans created the bronze crabs as supports for the damaged obelisks. In Roman mythology, crabs are associated with Apollo, the sun god, thus continuing the solar connection.

In the 1870s, the Egyptian government gave one obelisk to the City of London, and the second obelisk was gifted to the United States and now stands in Central Park.

(Largo, FL) In a shocking decision delivered Feb 28th, 2012, President Obama's Security and Exchange Commission ruled that PepsiCo's use of aborted fetal remains in their research and development agreement with Senomyx to produce flavor enhancers falls under "ordinary business operations".

The letter signed by Attorney Brian Pitko of the SEC Office of Chief Counsel was sent in response to a 36-page document submitted by PepsiCo attorneys in January, 2012. In that filing, PepsiCo pleaded with the SEC to reject the Shareholder's Resolution filed in October 2011 that the company "adopt a corporate policy that recognizes human rights and employs ethical standards which do not involve using the remains of aborted human beings in both private and collaborative research and development agreements."

PepsiCo lead attorney George A. Schieren noted that the resolution should be excluded because it "deals with matters related to the company's ordinary business operations" and that "certain tasks are so fundamental to run a company on a day-to-day basis that they could not be subject to stockholder oversight."

www.facebook.com/kmasinterphotography

Debi Vinnedge, Executive Director of Children of God for Life, the organization that exposed the PepsiCo- Senomyx collaboration last year (see www.cogforlife.org/senomyxalert.htm) was appalled by the apathy and insensitivity of both PepsiCo executives and the Obama administration.

"We're not talking about what kind of pencils PepsiCo wants to use - we are talking about exploiting the remains of an aborted child for profit", she said. "Using human embryonic kidney (HEK-293) to produce flavor enhancers for their beverages is a far cry from routine operations!"

PepsiCo also requested the resolution be excluded because it "probed too deeply into matters of a complex nature upon which shareholders cannot make an informed judgment." "In other words, PepsiCo thinks its stockholders are too stupid to understand what they are doing with the remains of aborted children", Vinnedge stated. "Well they are about to find out just how smart the public really is when they turn up the heat on the world-wide boycott!" Vinnedge is warning consumers to be on guard for the roll-out of PepsiCo's newest beverage that claims to cut sugar and calories by 50%. The product is called Pepsi Next and is anticipated to hit the market in the coming weeks.

PepsiCo stated that their goal with Senomyx is to produce new beverages with reduced sugars and calories. So is Pepsi Next the new Senomyx-PepsiCo creation? With the explosion of health foods on the market, there is nothing to stop companies from using fetal remains as protein ingredients and calling it natural.

Concerns are that GRAS rules (Generally Recognized as Safe) might not even trigger FDA oversight. And that has consumers plenty worried about just what might be "next" from the industry!

Oklahoma Senator Ralph Shortey's SB1418 banning the sale of products that are developed with or contain aborted fetal remains is critically important for consumer protection. See <http://cogforlife.org/oklahomasenator.htm>

"The public is already saying no thanks to all Pepsi beverages and Pepsi Next is just that - the "next" product to avoid!"

The Caduceus is the traditional emblem of the Greek god Hermes, messenger to the gods (equivalent to Roman Mercury). He is the patron of thieves, merchants, and travelers.

The Caduceus features two snakes entwined around a staff with wings.

The symbol represents Hermes, fertility, rebirth, rejuvenation, harmony, and balance.

The Rod of Asclepius is the symbol of Asclepius, the Greco-Roman god of healing and medicine.

This is the correct symbol of medicine, featuring a single snake wrapped around a staff.

The staff may symbolize authority and the snake symbolized rebirth, healing and rejuvenation.

The Finality of Babylon's Doom

²¹ Then a mighty angel picked up a boulder the size of a large millstone and threw it into the sea, and said: “With such violence the great city of Babylon will be thrown down, never to be found again.

²² The music of harpists and musicians, pipers and trumpeters, will never be heard in you again. No worker of any trade will ever be found in you again. The sound of a millstone will never be heard in you again.
